ANDREW LADD PLANS TO BE A STAR

Iris Blackstone interviews a young Canadian basketball player.

IB: Hello, Andrew. Do you know that I heard about you from my 14-year-old son? He has a big poster of you in his room.

AL: Yes, a lot of teenagers know who I am, but not many adults have heard of me. I hope that one day that will change!

5 IB: I'm sure that this article will help. Why don't you tell me a little about yourself?

AL: I'm sixteen years old, and I live in Toronto. I'm on the basketball team of my school, Wilmington High School. I love playing against other teams, and I plan to be a basketball star!

10 IB: Why do you think you will succeed? Very few high school basketball players become famous.

AL: First, because I believe that I can succeed. You have to believe in yourself if you want to make something happen. Secondly, I'm working very hard to make my dream come true. I practice for at least two hours every day.
15 Thirdly, in my two years on the team, I've never lost a game! Last of all, I'm tall, and that's always helpful in basketball.

IB: Did you start playing basketball because of your height?

AL: No, my father taught me how to play when I was only five years old, and I loved it, even though I wasn't tall then. I only started growing a lot when 20 I was eleven years old.

IB: Andrew, thank you, and good luck with your career!
