
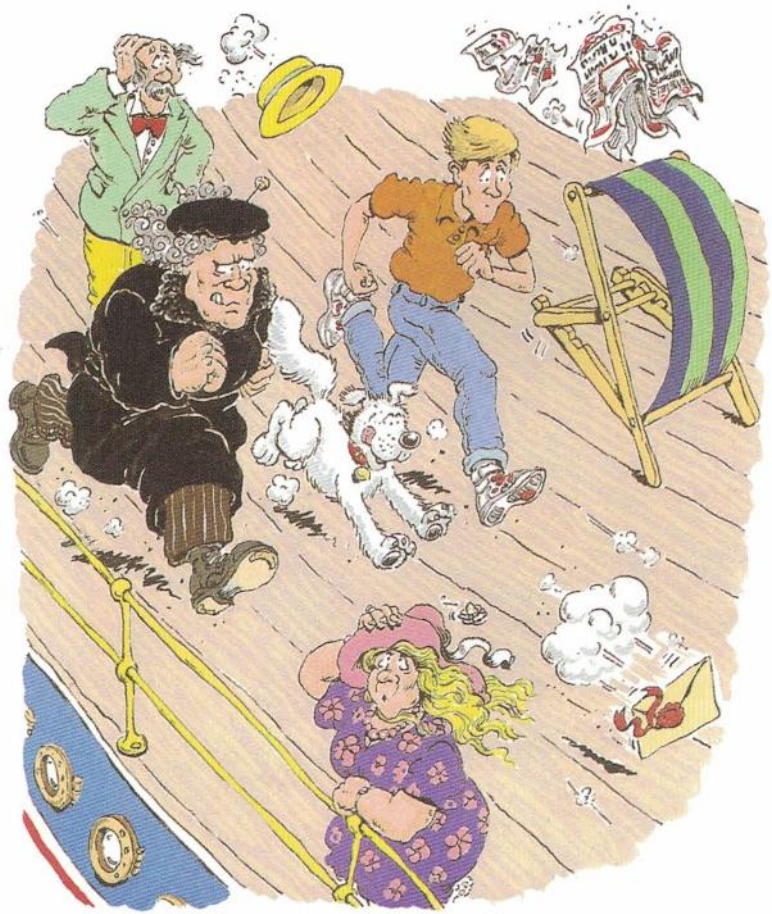
Simon opens his bag and takes his lunch out. He takes the old woman's letter out, too, but he does not see it. "Do you want a sandwich?" Simon asks Samantha. "Yes, please," Samantha says. She takes her lunch out of her bag. "Do you want an apple?" she says. The old woman is behind them. Simon and Samantha do not see her. They do not see her hand.



The boat is going fast now. The wind is strong. Samantha's hair goes in her eyes. The wind takes the old woman's letter. The letter flies along the boat. "What's that paper?" Samantha says. "Is it your boat ticket?" "I don't know," Simon says.
Simon runs. He wants his ticket. The old woman runs, too. She wants her letter.
