

Together, they slowly walked up the hill. Soon Daniela found her bag. "Oh, no. My camera's broken," she said. Tyler saw something and said, "Daniela, come and look at this." "What is it, Tyler?" she asked. "It's blood," he said. "Blood?" said Daniela. "David's blood?" Daniela said, "This is terrible. I think the dogs found David. He's hurt. We should try to find him and take him to the hospital."

They walked through the trees. Tyler said, "Here's some more blood. Look! Let's go this way." He pointed through the trees. They walked a little more and then Daniela saw something. "What's this?" she asked. "They're dogs' footprints," said Tyler. "And here's some more of David's blood, too! David was here!" "Let's go and find him," he said. "But the dogs . . ." she replied. Tyler replied, "Okay, let's stay away from Mr. Jenkins's dogs."