

CHAPTER 5

Grandma's head and shoulders broke out through the roof.

'I feel fantastic! You see, I have got magic powers!'

'But Grandma, I made this medicine,' shouted George.

'I don't believe you,' she shouted back.

'Watch this, then.'

George poured some medicine onto a spoon and walked towards a chicken. Like Grandma, the chicken shot into the air, then came down. After that, smoke poured from its mouth. George threw water over it. Then the chicken started to grow.

'Look!' George shouted. 'I gave it the magic medicine and it's growing, just like you.'

The chicken got bigger and bigger, but it also got fatter and fatter. When it stopped, it was the size of a horse.

'It's not as tall as me,' shouted Grandma. 'I'm the tallest!'

Then George's mother came back from the shops. She saw the enormous chicken. She saw Grandma's head above the roof.

'What's happening?' she asked. She could not believe her eyes!