

When they got to Mr. Walsh's house, nobody was home. Faye said, "John, help me. Find something to break the window."
"What?" said John. "You want me to break the window?"
"Of course!" she replied. "Nobody's home. We can't get in. There's something inside the house I want to see. We have to break a window. Hurry."
John gave Faye a stone. "Thanks. Is anybody looking?" asked Faye. John looked around and replied, "No. I don't think so."
"Good," she said.

Mrs. Dale, Mr. Jenkins, and Tyler went to Bayview Museum. There, they met Mr. Harding.

"Hello, I'm Kevin Harding," he said to Mrs. Dale. "How can I help you?"

"It's nice to meet you, Mr. Harding. I'm Margaret Dale," she said. "We need you to look at this paper. How old is it?" she asked.

Mr. Jenkins gave the paper to Mr. Harding. "I don't know. I'll have to look at it."
