

Then Saba had an idea. He asked everyone to be quiet. He bent down and gently asked Ya'akov, "Ya'akovaleh, what is in your hand?" Ya'akov answered in a whisper, "I have a green marble in my hand." Saba said, "Ya'akov, you must open your hand!" "No, no, Saba! Then my marble will fall!"

Saba said to everyone, "Do you see? He will not open his hand. A closed hand cannot go out of the crack. David – will you give him a new, different marble?" "Yes, yes!" said David. "Open your hand, Ya'akov! I will give you a new marble!"

Ya'akov opened his hand. PLOOP! The marble fell into the wall. Ya'akov took his hand out right away! "Hooray!" everyone shouted. David gave Ya'akov a shiny new marble.

After Shabbat, Saba took a pail of cement* and closed up the crack in the wall. And that was the end of that!

From this story we see that "Chacham Adif MiNavi"!
