

Hans looked for a little stone to fill the hole, but he couldn't find one. "What should I do?" he wondered. Finally, he had an idea. He put his finger into the hole, and the dripping water stopped.

Hans wanted to go home. He wanted to call for help, but he couldn't leave the hole. From the other side of the wall he could hear the big waves of the sea. SWISH! SWISH! It was cold and dark, and he began to feel scared. What if no one ever finds him?
